Subject: Vacancy notice 245/2022

Dear Ms. Allison,

I'm happy to be applying to the currently open IT Specialist position at Blau IT. I have loved tinkering with computers since childhood and have had an intense desire to pick them apart and learn how they work from the start. This early fascination grew in me over the years, and I acquired a strong set of problem-solving skills. I think that with my analytical acumen, I can bring something of value to your company.

I have previous experience as a member of the Google Developer Student Club UPT. In this role, I not only took frontend and backend webinars and courses, but I also took part in building team projects. In addition to this, I have earned 4th place at the Autonomous Driving Bootcamp 2020, which have given me significant hands-on experience setting up microcontrollers, configuring them, working with Arduino, adding and removing additional devices to electronic circuits and debugging a wide range of software and hardware issues in the IT and Automotive world.

Moreover, I am familiar with a broad assortment of malware types and how to remove them or prevent them from infecting a system. Using what I know, I have been able to work with friends and relatives both remotely and in-person to resolve their computer-related difficulties. I thus am just as experienced with the technical end of IT as I am with the customer service end.

I am grateful for your time, kindness and attention in considering me for this position. It would be an honor to be able to work as part of the team of excellent IT Specialists and Technicians that you have at Blau IT.

Sincerely,

Alexandru Varatic
